

ALBUM INAUGURAL INVESTIGATION

Album Description

Use this Inquiry Starter Set to have students investigate what they can learn about a president through an investigation of inauguration primary sources.

Teaching Notes:

Investigate this photo to look for clues about this president.

- What can you learn directly from what you see?
- What can you infer about what you see?
- What evidence in the photo can you point to that backs up your inferences?

OFFICIAL PORTRAIT

OBAMA / PETE SOUZA.

Teaching Notes:

Although students might recognize this president, show this image to students without identifying who he is. Instead, ask the following:

- What impression of this president do you get by looking at this photo he sat for before his inauguration.
- What details in the photo do you think contributed to the way you think/feel about it?

Mrs. FEINSTEIN, Mr. President and Vice President. Mr. President-elect and Vice President-elect, ladies and gentlemen, welcome to the inauguration of the 44th President of the United States of America.

As we gather here today, we are watching today as our great democracy engages in this peaceful transition of power. Here on the National Mall, where we remember the founders of our Nation and those who sought to make it free, we gather to watch another line in the solid story of history. The freedom of a people to choose its leaders is the root of liberty. In a world where political strife is too often settled with violence, we come here every 4 years to restore the power of the Presidency upon our democratically elected leader.

Those who doubt the supremacy of the ballot over the ballot box have diminished the power conferred by nonviolent struggle for justice and equality. Like the one that made this day possible, no triumph tainted by brutality could ever match the sweet victory of this hour and of what it means to those who march and die to make it real. Our work is not yet finished, but future generations will mark this morning as the turning point for real and necessary change in our Nation. They will look back and remember that this was the moment when the dream that once echoed across history from the steps of the Lincoln Memorial finally reached the walls of the White House.

(Applause.)

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. In that spirit, we today not only inaugurate a new administration, we pledge ourselves to the hope, the vision, the unity, and the renewed call to greatness inspired by the 44th President of the United States, Barack Obama.

(Applause.)

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. Thank you, and God bless America.

(Applause.)

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. At this time I call upon Dr. Rick Warren, pastor of the Saddleback Church in Lake Forest, CA, to provide the invocation.

PASTOR WARREN. Let us pray.

Almighty God, our Father, everything we see and everything we can't see exists because of You alone. It all comes from You. It all belongs to You. It all exists for Your glory. History is Your story. The scriptures tell us: Fear, O Israel, the Lord is our God, the Lord is one. And You are the compassionate and merciful one, and You are loving to every one You have made. Now, today, we rejoice, not only in America's peaceful transfer of power for the 44th time, we celebrate a hinge point of history, with the inauguration of our first African-American President of the United States. We are so grateful to live in this land, a land of unspoken possibility, where the son of an African American can rise to the highest level of our leadership. And we know today that Dr. King and a great cloud of witnesses are shouting in heaven.

Give to our new President Barack Obama the wisdom to lead us with humility, the courage to lead us with integrity, the compassion to lead us with generosity. Bless and protect him, his family, Vice President Biden, the Cabinet, and every one of our freely elected leaders. Help us, O God, to remember that we are Americans, united not by race or religion or blood but to our commitment to freedom and justice for all.

When we focus on ourselves, when we fight each other, when we forget You, forgive us. When we presume that our greatness and our prosperity is ours alone, forgive us. When we fail to treat our fellow human beings and all the Earth with the respect that they deserve, forgive us.

As we face these difficult days ahead, may we have a new birth of charity in aims, responsibility in our actions, humility in our approaches, and civility in our attitudes, even when we differ. Help us to share, to serve, and to seek the common good of all. May all people of goodwill today join together to work for a more just, a more healthy, and a more prosperous nation and a peaceful planet. And may we never forget that one day all nations and all people will stand accountable before You.

We now commit our new President and his wife Michelle and his daughters, Malia and Sasha, into Your loving care. I humbly ask this in the name of the one who changed my life, Yeshua, Jesus, Jesus, Jesus, who saved us to pray: Our Father, who art in heaven, hallowed be Thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done, on Earth as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For thine is the kingdom and the power and the glory forever. Amen.

(Applause.)

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. I am so pleased to introduce world-renowned musical artist Aretha Franklin to sing "My Country, 'Tis of Thee" (Performed by Ms. Aretha Franklin.)

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. Please join me in welcoming my colleague from Utah, the Honorable Robert Bennett.

Mr. BENNETT. It is my great honor to introduce Associate Justice of the Supreme

Teaching Notes:

Click the link to dig into this source.

1. Scan the complete text of this document to understand what the inaugural proceedings consist of. Make an outline so that someone else could quickly understand the main events and the order in which they took place.
2. Who provided the introduction for the inauguration? Note one interesting thing you learned about the ceremony from this person's remarks.
3. Who spoke next? Note one important thing this person wished for the new president and one important thing this person advised that we, the American people, should do. Why did these two things strike you as being important?
4. After the oaths of office, the newly elected president gave his address. How close were your predictions from the word cloud? Read the speech and list the main points using bullet points. Then highlight one idea from the speech (1-3 sentences) that stood out to you. Be prepared to share why you chose that idea.
5. President John F. Kennedy was the first to have a poet recite a poem at the inauguration. Read the poem by the American poet, Elizabeth Alexander. Why do you think that this poem was chosen for the inauguration? What does the poem make you think and feel?
6. What are the last two parts of the inauguration? Do you think there was a fitting end to the inauguration? Give your response and briefly explain your reasoning.

2009 INAUGURAL PARADE MICHELLE AND BARACK OBAMA WATCH THE PARADE FROM THE
FROM THE TON, D.C.

Teaching Notes:

After the inauguration, the newly sworn in President traditionally travels to the White House and observes the inaugural parade from a reviewing stand. How do you think the president and the first lady felt at this moment?

Imagine how you might feel if you were elected president of the United States. What would you want to express in your inaugural address? Create a word cloud with some key words that you would use in your speech.
