ALBUM INQUIRY STARTER SET - THEN AND NOW: CARS

Album Description

One of the most effective ways for young historians to engage with primary sources and history is to look at the development of common items across the historical range. Cars are one of those ubiquitous modes of transportation that are found throughout the last 120 years. Used images from Free to Use and Reuse: Cars

- Using the images, have students first do a See, Think, Wonder independently.
- Next have students do a Think, Pair, Share with their ideas. Repeat with all images.
- Finally, have students talk about changes over time, using specific examples from the images.

Extension: Challenge students to think about what a future car might look like?

Teaching Notes:

Thanks for a great suggestion! Might I also add that there is a picture book about the first women to drive cross country? Check out Alice Across America: The Story of the First Women's Cross-Country Road Trip by Sarah Glenn Marsh and illustrated by Gilbert Ford. A great story!
