

ALBUM ZOOM BACKGROUNDS FROM THE LIBRARY OF CONGRESS

Album Description

It's not easy to find photographs that work well as Zoom backgrounds. After all, the majority of photographs have centers of interest smack dab in the center where your own talking head needs to be!

I thought it would be fun to collect a few Zoom backgrounds from the Library of Congress, but it's not as if one can search on empty center or missing a focal point! I figured a variety of general landscapes might work, as well as certain photos of Library of Congress buildings (both interior and exterior), gardens, and seasonal shots. I kind of like the idea of looking for photographs from your own state or city, too, to give your Zoom box a little local flair.

It's clear from the beginnings of this album that I have a preference for photographs from the Highsmith \(Carol M.\) Archive, particularly for their bold colors. If you go to the Highsmith collection at the Library, you can limit your searches to that collection only. You could also try browsing the Free to Use and Reuse Sets at the Library.

Please add more photos and enjoy a fresh Zoom experience!

Technical note:

It's super easy to add a background while you're in a Zoom meeting. Click on the ^ symbol to the right of the video icon and select video settings. Click Virtual Background and select the new background you'd like to use. (You'll need to add a photo to the virtual backgrounds box first, but all you have to do is click on the + sign and choose it from your computer.) Of course, there are many platforms out there, plus ios and android, plus many devices. I think this help page from Zoom covers just about everything you're likely to use, although it's kind of overkill: <https://support.zoom.us/hc/en-us/articles/210707503-Virtual-Background>

Mary Johnson

Having fun with this. I'm finding a great way to find backgrounds is to go to the Carol Highsmith collection at the Library and use the filters.

For example if you'd like to find something related to where you are (or where you'd like to be) filter by Location. I'm also finding filtering by Subjects is helpful to find something something specific such as "Flowers" or "Mountains".

A SCULPTED BRONZE MALE FIGURE REPRESENTING PHYSICAL LABOR AND A FEMALE

Teaching Notes:

This photograph from the exterior of the Library of Congress John Adams Building works well for Zoom meetings because the figures are to the right and left of the person speaking. I did discover that I needed to crop off the figures' legs. Otherwise, Zoom cut off their heads! I need to look into more details of length vs. width, apparently.
