

ALBUM OSCAR JAMES DUNN - UNSUNG HERO OF LOUISIANA

Album Description

In celebration of Black History month, I wanted to put together an album about an unsung hero of Louisiana. Oscar James Dunn was born enslaved but went on to serve as the Lieutenant Governor of Louisiana from 1868-1870. In 1867, he attempted to integrate New Orleans public schools, and in 1869, he was invited to the White House to meet with President Grant. He was the first African American dignitary to receive an invitation to the White House.

I first learned about Oscar Dunn when I read the new graphic novel Monumental: Oscar Dunn and His Radical Fight in Reconstruction Louisiana published by the Historic New Orleans Collection. It is a great read, and I loved that some of the illustrations included primary sources!

Teaching Notes:

Thank you very much. I teach African American History and did not know about this incredible man. I will have to add him to my lessons. I often talk about Booker T. Washington's controversial dinner at the White House in 1901, it is amazing to see such an early example of Presidential courage and respect of an African American leader.
