ALBUM WHAT'S ON YOUR EARTH DAY POSTER?

Album Description

Using the Library of Congress Earth, Ecology or Environment Posters as models (see some examples in this album) discuss the posters meaning and possible impact with students. Next challenge students to reflect on and draw, or take a photo and create an Earth Day poster that is personally meaningful to them.

There are some wonderful Earth Day resources in this post and the comments in our TPS Teachers Network thanks to  Lisa Fink ,  Margaret Lincoln and  Julie Schaul .

- - Alternate title from Amplifier website.
- - Alternate title from scan request sheet.
- - "The We the Future campaign showcased ten young leaders representing ten diverse movements, each already building us a better world. They are drafting and passing legislation. They are working on climate justice, criminal justice reform, voting rights, immigration rights, disability justice, gun reform, queer rights, and literacy. Their work is nonpartisan, and it carries the energy of countless communities from every background. In a time of uncertainty these icons show us a path forward, and they show us that the future is already here." Amplifier website
