ALBUM PRIMARY SOURCES AND PICTURE BOOKS: DANGEROUS JANE BY SUZANNE SLADE

Album Description

Primary sources to accompany Dangerous Jane, a picture book about the life of Jane Addams

CARSON CITY DAILY APPEAL., APRIL 23, 1917 (CARSON CITY, NEVADA)

STAYING AT HOME

Jane Addams wants the professional pacifists formed into an exempted list, excused from war because they do not believe in war. When the Quakers held such views from religious convictions there was some reason for excusing them, as long as there were enough others to go. But the greatest of the Quaker poets, Whittier, did not scorn to use his powers of song to celebrate the deeds of those who went to the front and fought for human liberty in the Civil War.

Jane Addams is fundamentally wrong. The pacifists should take pot luck

HOW NOT TO STOP WAR.

Jane Addams of Chicago, remarkably wrong in the majority of her contentions, has added another counterfeit for stopping war to the already amazing list of methods. Miss Addams, at the closing session of the International Women's congress at Vienna, Austria, was elected president of the organization. This congress is out to stop future wars by having the women of the world line up for non-participation in any activity which would make war possible. A beautiful thought indeed, but it won't work, for the Jane Adams and Her Slander.

Mount Kisco, N. Y., July 11, 1915.
To the Editor of the New York Times.

On Friday night at Carnegie hall Miss Jane Addams stated that in the present war, in order to get soldiers to charge with the bayonet, all nations are forced to make them drunk. I quote from The Times report:

"In Germany they have a regular ignorance it displays are inconceivable.

Miss Addams does not know that even from France they have banished absinthe. If she doubts that in this France had succeeded let her ask for it. I asked for it, and each maitre d'hotel treated me as though I had proposed we should assassinate General Joffre.

Jane Addams, Back From Europe, Tells Of Moral Let-Down

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Empty stomachs are principally responsible for a juvenile crime wave in some parts of Europe, Jane Addams of Chicago declared Friday on her return from a trip abroad. When they get food, she said, conditions will return to normal.

Miss Addams went to Europe in June to attend the Woman's International league for Peace and Freedom, which met in Vienna. She described conditions in the Balkan states as "very sad and uncertain," and said that Austria is "absolutely bankrupt."

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

The Chicago Tribune in its issue of November 25th, presents an interesting illustration of journalistic egotism. In its first column it administers a scathing rebuke to Miss Jane Addams and Mrs. Henry Ford for presuming to suggest that those in favor of action by our government looking to mediation, should wire the President their views. This according to the Tribune, is quite improper. "Would it not," asks the editor

Jane Addams! How splendid has been her success is long a matter of record. Her magnificent achievement, Hull House, has set at rest for all time any doubt that may have existed as to the eminence of her position, and of her rank on the stage of life.

NOT TIME FOR WOMEN TO HOLD OFFICE, SAYS JANE ADDAMS

New York, July 2.—Jane Addams of Hull House, Chicago, who arrived here from Europe today, at first declared she would not accept the candidacy for mayor of Chicago in the coming election.

Later, in the same interview, she qualified this statement considerably, and gave the impression that she might possibly be induced to accept the candidacy if sufficiently pressed.

Miss Addams' friends have been circulating a persistent call for the woman reform leader to run for mayor ever since the women of Illinois were given the vote.
